WHEELING, WEST VA. Thursday Morning, April 7.

God guard our flag, and keep each star
Each stripe as bright as new they wave,
Still make it lead our ranks in war,
Still dost above each patriot's grave,
Death to the traitor that would dare
To trail it through the dust of shame,
All houset hearts its lot will share
And follow it to Death or Fame.

Bull Creek Oil Region.

A friend who visited, last week, the Horse Neck Oil Region, commonly known by the name of Bull Creek Oil Region, and situated in Pleasants county, W. Va., twenty miles northeast from Parkersburg and five miles from the Ohlo river, on a branch of Bull creek, informs us that the excitement about the great Gilfillen flowing well increases daily and hundreds of persons are visiting it. The company owning the well are erecting three large wooden cisterns capable of holding twelve hundred barrels each. The pipe conducting the oil from the well is so plugged as to leave an orifice of a half inch for the oil to flow out. On Wednesday morning last this half inch stream was turned into cistern number one and in three days and nights it was filled briming full. Surrounding the well are a number of pits with an aggregate area of an acre now filled with oil to the depth of five feet. A quantity of oil, upon tapping the oil stratum, flowed off into Horse Neck Run and was lost, and these pits were then dug for saving a portion of the flowing flood of oil, which could not by any means be entirely restrained. Experienced oil men assert that if the well was permitted to flow to its full capacity its yield would be from twelve to fifteen hundred barrels a day.

We have also learned from an interested party that one half of the Gilfillen flowing well has been sold to a company of eastern capitalists for minery thousand dollars.

Parson BROWNLOW .- The irrepressible Parson Brownlow has again turned up at Nashville. He draws the following striking contrast, in a letter to his paper, under contrast, in a letter to his paper, under date of March 2:

Two years ago this week I came down this same railroad, my last trip until now, but under very different circumstances. I was a prisoner, guarded by rebel bayonets, and caited for at every depot by malicious and blackguard partisans of the rebellion. The cry usually was, "bring out the d—d old traitor, and let us hang him on a limb."

These scoundrels were not in attendance at the depots as I came on this time, some of them had fled the country, and others bed gone the way of all carth! I was met by a different class of men on this trip, and in a different spirit. I was taken by the hand most cordinity, congratulated, and occasiously called on for a speech, but had to decine on account of feeble health. The vile wretches and unprincipled traitors who thronged the depots and stations, rejoining over my banishment, have ingloriously fled from their homes, and are now outcasts from civilized society.

Or is our matake so buge as that of copperbeas and rebels who alleged we could raise no northern soldiers to suppress rebellion, nor procure from any source money for a sciouls and the bloodiest battle fields of other who have dead of the colliders to suppress rebellion, nor procure from any source money for a sciouls wai? Let hundred of the copletes that bloodiest battle fields of the cop thronged the depots and stations, rejoining over my banishment, have ingloriously fled from their homes, and are now outcasts from civilized society.

Conwecticut Election.

The election the other day in Connecticut was all on one side. There has been no so sweeping triumph for any party in 'that State for thirty years. The Copperheads tried the 'still hunt' dodge, but it was of no use. The people had made up their minds that the rebellion must be put down, and they voted as they thought would clearly indicate that determination. That is the whole story. There was good work on the right side, but not nearly so much of it as in 1860, when the Republicans carried the State by 1,000 majority, or last year, when the other Seymour was beaten by 2,599. Now, the Union majority on the State ticket is probably something over 8,000, and the new Legislature as right as a book. The State is overwhelmingly for the Union cause and for the candidates who unconditionally uphold it.

From the Philadelphia American

Resources of the South.

It is, we believe; a legal maxim; that no man can be permitted to avail himself of his own wrong. It our copperheads would ponder sagely on this reasonable proposition, they would, perhaps, cease to tauth our loyal people with the long continuous accounts to the training and undivided aid to the Government. But only a section of that organization assisted in the patriotic duty, whilst the largest division cither around inactive or gave positive aid and encouragement to the traitors. Thus were our reasonable expectations balked, and thus was the north weakened in its efforts to suppress the insurrection. The copperhead war. The copperhead war in Goles county because the field it oeed he, and to consider the first question that much of what the first question that much of what the South has expended in this sruggle does not have a reductors by base repudiation, or procured from British capitals, of all men the most credulous and conductive or gave positive aid and encouragement to the traitors. Thus were our oreasonable expectations balked, and thus was the north weakened in its efforts to suppress the insurrection. The copperhead war.

The Copperhead War.

The copperhead war. The copperhead war in Goles county because he in a great much of what the general training the gain considering the gain consider. The copperhead war in Goles county because he fail triumph.

It should never be forgotten in considering the gain training the gain considering the gain training the gain considering the first way of getting their and some his fail way of getting the reduction that much of what the surface of them have already been arrested, both has expended in this sruggle does on the surface of the surface of the mid and the his considering the fail of the Government of the prison that much of what the surface of the four training the gain training the gain training the gain the most ore division that much of what the surface of the four war is question that much of what the surface of the middle the ropean aid aud countenance to the rebels, so unnatural and so unleaked for, we els, so unnatural and so unlooked for, we perceive another powerful cause which has impeded our progress. Who could have divined that the rulers of Europe, the Christians and philanthropists who had in so many public documents denounced human slavery as the shame of Christendom, and whose scribes had so often insulted our northern people for assumed complicity in the guilt, would ture so very short a corner, and stretch so many doubtful points to favor the rebellion? From month to month have the confederate emissaries been waiting doubtfully at Euromeath to meath have the confederate emissaries been waiting doubtfully at European courts in hopes of recognition; whereas the firm and honest rebuke which is should have met them in the beginning would have gone far to show them the ut ter hopelessness of establishing their slave empire.

From both these sources, therefore—from the copperheads, who assured the rebels that their cause was rightful and should be sided in the north, and from foreign governments, which hesitated as to recognition, and meanwhile conferred belligerent rights where none were due—ligerent rights where none were due-were the insurgents incited to do desperate were the insurgents incited to do desperate battle, wasting their lives and property, tolling incessnutly by day and night, straining their credit till repudiation unavoidably followed, and wasting the wealth of generations in their med endeavors.—Only by extremes like these have the rebels been able to keep the field with armies, and these are scarcely fed or clothed.—State after State has be a reconquered by the legal government—the whole valley of the Mississippi is reclaimed, and there is scarcely a possibility that the rebels can the Mississippi is reclaimed, and there is scarcely a possibility that the rebels can ever repossess a single State, scarcely a considerable town, of all that thus has been lost to them.

Any candid man may therefore see that though the more sanguine among loyal men were deceived in regard to time, the strong conviction of the patriot party as to northern superiority has been abundantly verified by the progress of events. We have not yet conquered the rebellion, it is true; but how long can it survive? If we true to measuring its term by a twelveerred in measuring its term by a twelve-month, is the error so great as that of Jefferson Davis, who said he could defend Virginia for twenty years? Time will show. Or is our matake so buge as that of copperbeads and rebels who alleged we Patricite Proposition.

The following is an extract from a letter of S. Wolls Williams, Esq. Secretary of Legation and Interpreter to China, dated Nov. 7, 1863. transmitting his accounts for salary, &c., to the Treasury Department:

The copperheads themselves, they and the disaffected or lukewamm generals of their own personalson, whom it was difficult at first to get rid of, are fairly chargeable with the unexpected delay, as well as the additional coat. copperhead statistics, put forth to deceive the northern people and induce them to desist from a righteous contest at the very moment when the rebellion seems stagger-ing to its fall.

Who is Responsible for the War. The following extract from the speech of Hon. Green Clay Smith, delivered at Lexington, has truth and point.

of Hon. Green Clay Smith, delivered at Lexington, has truth and point.

You may denounce the Republican party, and say what you will about them, but listen to a point in the history of the country, while the Administration was still in your possession. The great question was the negro. In the session of Congress in 1860, the South asked that the Censtitution be amended for the protection of slavery. They had a majority in the Senate. The Committee of thirty-three proposed to put slavery beyond interference. Masou, Toumba and Slidell said, "You may propose what you please, but we don't want it—wou't have it. We intend to go out, and form an independent government. We know it will produce war. Slavery cannot live under a Republican government, and we require a despotium to keep negroes in their places. We can use the negro to raise crops, and put every white man in the South in the field, and thus whip the white population of the North, and we will do it." If they have the right to take and use negroes, as a legitimate means of warfare, we, too, have a right to employ them.

On whom rests the responsibility for the five hundred thousand lives lost in this war—for the millions of wives, and mothers, and orphans, weeping in their descitate homes? For the millions of maimed, and halt, and blind? The leaders who laid the foundations of this rebellion have the guilt laid at their doors, and God will bring retribution on them. The peace men of Kentucky, while they could frame the guilt laid at their doors, and God will bring retribution on them. The peace men of Kentucky, while they could frame long bills of indictment against the President and his armies, could not trust their property in the hands of the Rebels. But as soon as the Yankees came, they brought back their cattle, and trusted their rights to their mercies. Yet they attempted to get a majority of the Legislature of the State to carry Kentucky into the rebellion, and falled.

and failed. They would not furnish a dollar or a man for the Government; set when they commenced burning our churches and ruincommenced burning our churches and ruining our property we sent to Indiana and begged Governor Morton, for God's sake, to send us men and muskets. We appealed to Ohio to remember 1812, and the part Kentucky bore in that war. They did remember it. We appealed to Governor Yates. From these Border Siztes, Ohio, Indiana and Iliinois, loyal troops were poured into our State. The gallant Rousseau, with his legion, which he was not allowed to raise on our soil, crossed the river and occupied Louisville. The State was saved. No question was raised then about the Abolitionism of our deliverers. We marched side by aide with them.

Wirt County - Why no Local Bounty has been offered her holdiers. Wirt C. H., W. Va., April 4, 1864.

Wirt C. H., W. Va., April 4, 1864.

Editors Intelligencer:

I noticed in your issue of the 30th of March, 1864, an article from the re-enlisted soldiers from Wirt county, belonging to the 1st Regiment W. Va. V. V. Cavairy, in which the following paragraph occurs:

"While other counties of our State are paying bounties to their solunteers, it is surprising to us that no such measures are undertaken not even spoken of in the coun-sequence and laterpetre to Othea, detel or Sequence of the service of Chica, the control of the service of sequence of the service of service prising to us that no such measures are undertaken nor even spoken of in the country of Wirt." And again. "Her citizens at home have lived in ease and safety, setdom suffering from rebet raids, &c."

Now, Messrs. Editors, as there has been a great deal said and some misunderstanding about Wirt county concerning this matter, I would say first, that Wirt county and he here are results in and he here.
